

A dirt path winds through a forest of tall trees. Sunlight filters through the dense canopy, creating a warm, golden glow in the center of the path. The path is flanked by green grass and small plants. The overall atmosphere is peaceful and serene.

the way
of the good,
and keep
to the paths
of the righteous.

*A note
from the pastor*

In worship this morning we will sing about devoting all that we are and all that we have to our Lord, Jesus Christ. This type of song is sung often in churches, but many join in without ever considering that it is possible to sing a lie!

Our walk through the book of James has led us to consider many practical aspects of living out a genuine faith, and today we will consider the idea of submission to God and to His perfect will. We will specifically look at two of the most precious and limited resources that we have: time and money. Our handling of these resources speaks volumes about the state of our hearts and the quality of our relationship with Christ. A mature, growing walk with the Lord will lead us to submit all areas of our lives to His authority, while a juvenile faith exclaims, "I'll do as I want with what's mine!"

I'm glad you have come to worship with us this morning! I pray that we are all able to sing truthfully and earnestly of our submission to Christ. I pray also that He would speak to each of our hearts today.

"I appeal to you therefore, brothers, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies as a living sacrifice, holy and acceptable to God, which is your spiritual worship."

-Romans 12:1 ESV

Students across Arkansas are preparing to start back to school tomorrow! This will be a very different school year for both students and teachers. Many will be attending class virtually while others will be utilizing social distancing and masks on campus. Please remember to pray for our students as they cope with these changes. Pray also that our students will demonstrate the marvelous love of Christ to their classmates. They can carry the gospel to places unavailable to us, so pray that Christ would lead them there.
